Low energy experiments with high resolution and low background have been proposed for neutrinoless double beta decay, low energy solar neutrinos and dark matter searches. I will focus on prospects of future experiments on the two first topics.